

Dedication: This is a poem Basil writes not long after becoming an orphan.

Father I Love You

*I see others, so happy and care free
I wonder if one day I could also see
What wonders I have missed since the fire
Those moments I have longed for since that flame pyre*

*I am not sure when or even if I can Feel and embrace of happiness again
What would I give to know what could be
If that mother and child were my father and me.*
