

Dedication: This poem was written for Valentine's Day.

Thoughts of a Boundless Love

*How am I to show you my love?
If I were able
I'd give you a star from the sky above.*

*But as I am unable,
To accomplish so great a task.
Then what I can give you?
My sweet love I ask.*

*Must I restrain my desires?
And to the sensible thing?
To come and present
You flowers, candies or a diamond ring?*

*Nay, such trivial objects of affection
Cannot begin to express my joyous love
Maybe I can write you a song
And send it to you tied neatly to the leg of a dove.*

*But sad are these hands
for such words
they cannot find the right way to start
To express and deliver
All the love in my heart.*
