

The fisherman's daughter Part 1 age 7

*Today I sit beside the sea
Waiting for my daddy
To come back home
Back from his journey*

*The sun is warm
The wind is calm
All my friends wonder
If there is something wrong*

*But I know I am fine
I am just waiting for a sign
From the sea to tell me
My daddy is doing fine*

~LWKat~

The Fisherman's Daughter Part 2 age 11

*He is a fisherman
He is strong
He tells me his adventures
All of them in song*

*My friends call my foolish
And maybe I am
To wait every day and night
With my candle in hand*

*But I want to be there
The moment he arrives
To be the first to embrace him
When his ship stops it's battle with the tide.*

~LWKat~

The Fisherman's Daughter Part 3 age 14

*I worry about my mommy
She's been drinking every day
And I hear her tears through the walls
As they echo into the night*

*"Mommy, why do you cry?
I want to help dry your tears
But once your tears stop flowing
You never tell me your fears."*

*She smiles and pats my head
And replies as best she can
"I am alright my darling
Do not worry for me
Mommy just misses your daddy
It hurts knowing he is at sea."*

~LWKat~

The Fisherman's Daughter Part 4 age 19

*Dear mother, your pain is shared
I know of the stories too well
Of typhoons and storms that would rip boats to bits
I do not wish that fate to befall him.*

*so here I will light a candle
And hold it as high as I can
To help make a beacon
To guide my father to land*

*I have stayed by the sea
Holding my candle up high
So it will light his way back home
Back home to you and I.*

~LWKat~