

Two Wolves

The wolf starts out his life. Just looking for his mate. He knows that he must find her. She is destined to be his fate. He will know when he finds her. He will know it from the start, and from the moment he finds her. Only she will be in his heart. He will never again want another. His whole world will be in her eyes. Never wandering aimlessly in the cold.

Only know a life long love forever, together, as they grow old. So as they take on all challenges, conquering each one as it comes. Always, together and forever they live. So when you hear the howling, that is him searching for his mate, and if you hear a returning howl. Then you just witnessed fate. Together, as the sky starts to snow. As they watch the falling flakes, each other's love is all they know. It is never for an instance, doubted.

All they know is that it is true. Although he never has to say it, she hears the words "I love you."