

A Challenge

The finding of another life, to share both heart and soul
Of working on companionship to understand, console
Together as we share our love to prove to those around
That difference's between us all, forever will abound
As trials, and restrictions harbor questions of our bond
To hold each other close in hand as those about respond
We'll stand before the ones who judge, for we will know it's right
A kangaroo and wolf will prove these differences are slight
We share with those the love between us, different we might be
This Wolf and Roo, to show to all, this love they must agree
These differences between us all for they must be outside
Our thoughts to live in harmony, as love shall be our guide